Fig. 13: The tree planted was named Singson Tree, a flowering Vanilla Ice Hydrangea Tree. It was a favorite tree chosen by Lady Aida Castro

Fig. 14: This is a statue of King Louis IX, 13th Century Monarch in front of the Saint Louis Art Museum. It was brought here by the French government in the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair. With its renovation and addition of an annex building, the museum became a rated museum in the USA and the world with its collection. Only one Filipino work of art was displayed in this museum in the 1904 Fair and that belonged to Mr. Felix Ressurreccion Hidalgo, a gentleman's portrait which garnered a Gold Grand price. Other exhibitors included Juan Luna, Jose Rizal and Roman Faustino, just to mention a few. The Philippine artifacts were displayed at the Filipino Village, a specially constructed 43 acre area at the south west area of Forest Park.
